

You should do what you love and love what you do, and that is why I'm a teacher! I've known since being a young child that I belong in education. It is thrilling to watch the growth and development in my students and develop relationships of trust and love.

I consider myself a "California girl" because that's where I was born, but I was raised just outside of Washington DC in Sterling Virginia. I am the third child of six and have two sisters and three brothers. I attended Brigham Young University and received my Elementary Education degree and while there met and married my husband, Mark. I always wanted to be a mother and a teacher and I am incredibly blessed I am both. My children include four sons, a daughter, daughter in law, and a beautiful and energetic black lab named Kylo. Our family has lived in Missouri and Virginia and settled in Utah in 2009. I have two teenage boys still living at home and 3 young adult children who have spread their wings.

I have been a preschool and elementary school teacher for over 10 years. My skills include loving the children, colleagues, and parents that I work with and creating a safe, engaging, and fun learning environment for my students. I am thrilled to be starting a new adventure at North Point Elementary!

- Stacy Aldridge

